

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A measuring and simulation system for a machine-tool or production machine is described. Measurement results and simulation results are visualized simultaneously side-by-side on a common monitor display screen. A user can then easily set and optimize the control parameters of the machine-tool or production machine by a straightforward comparison between the measurement results and the simulation results.